

Call for Applications: STUDIO FIRST Instructor

The STUDIO FIRST non-academic program invites applications for the position of instructor for Project Three for the summer of 2024.

Dates: STUDIO FIRST 2024 offers two online sessions: May 14-June 18 and June 25-July 30. Project three will be delivered online via ZOOM from June 4-18 and July 16-30.

About STUDIO FIRST: <https://architecture.carleton.ca/non-degree-programs/studio-first>

About the role: The instructor will prepare and deliver the Project Three portion of the STUDIO FIRST course, attend final reviews of Project One and Two, and participate in occasional planning and promotion activities for STUDIO FIRST. This is a non-union position. Candidates will work closely with the STUDIO FIRST Academic Coordinator, the Special Programs Officer, and the teaching team. The position offers competitive pay.

About Project Three: The instructor will create a project brief and written outline with input from the Academic Coordinator and teaching team. The goal of the work is for students to engage in a form of speculative design project at the scale of the building or the city, working through multiple scales to develop a design project. The instructor will be required to conduct desk crits online with students, prepare and deliver lectures relevant to the project content and work, and outline clear deliverables that are obtainable within the students' skillsets. For the work, students will use and be learning Adobe Creative Suite, Rhino, hand-drawing, and modelling. They are expected to develop critical design thinking skills, thoughtful drawings, and careful design reactions. The goal is to produce work that can be included in a portfolio for MArch application purposes.

Qualifications: The program invites applications from faculty, contract instructors, and PhD students. All candidates must have a Master of Architecture. Candidates must also have excellent communication and presentation skills.

To apply: Please send a cover letter and curriculum vitae in one PDF document to mariacook3@cunet.carleton.ca

Application deadline: January 15, 2024
